

Contents

List of Illustrations — ix
List of Tables — xi
Acknowledgments — xiii

Introduction: The Aims of Education for Modern Japan — 1

---

Part I The Feudal Foundation of Modern Japanese Education

---

- 1 Education of the Samurai in Tokugawa Schools: Nisshinkan — 11
- 2 Education of the Samurai in the West: London University and Rutgers College, 1863–1868 — 28
- 3 The Meiji Restoration: Reemergence of Tokugawa Schools, 1868–1871 — 47

---

Part II The First Decade of Modern Education, 1870s: The American Model

---

- 4 The Gakusei: The First National Plan for Education, 1872 — 61
- 5 The Iwakura Mission: A Survey of Western Education, 1872–1873 — 77
- 6 The Modern Education of Japanese Girls: Georgetown, Bryn Mawr, Vassar, 1872 — 97
- 7 The Modern Japanese Teacher: The San Francisco Method, 1872–1873 — 112
- 8 Implementing the First National Plan for Education: The American Model, Phase I, 1873–1876 — 130
- 9 Rural Resistance to Modern Education: The Japanese Peasant, 1873–1876 — 160
- 10 The Imperial University of Engineering: The Scottish Model, 1873–1882 — 172
- 11 Pestalozzi to Japan: Switzerland to New York to Tokyo, 1875–1878 — 182

- 12 Scientific Agriculture and Puritan Christianity on the Japanese Frontier: The Massachusetts Model, 1876–1877 — 198
- 13 The Philadelphia Centennial: The American Model Revisited, 1876 — 219
- 14 The Second National Plan for Education: The American Model, Phase II, 1877–1879 — 230

Part III The Second Decade of Modern Education, 1880s: Reaction against the Western Model

---

- 15 “The Imperial Will on Education”: Moral versus Science Education, 1879–1880 — 257
- 16 The Third National Plan for Education: The Reverse Course, 1880–1885 — 284
- 17 Education for the State: The German Model, 1886–1889 — 314
- 18 The Imperial Rescript on Education: Western Science and Eastern Morality for the Twentieth Century, 1890 — 348

Notes — 371

Index — 407